Dear Friends,

Last Monday at Arundel cathedral our new diocesan Bishop was installed. Please pray for, and no doubt with, Bishop Stephen Wei-Jon Wang, who will be shepherd of the diocese for years to come. It was in 1965 that Southwark Diocese (Surrey – south of the Thames) Kent and Sussex were divided into two dioceses. The first Bishop of Arundel & Brighton was the Very Reverend David Cashman. Now I was in the seminary at that stage, and I wrote to Canon Dan Moriarty who was from my own home town to ask what choice I should make as we were given the option to choose where we went. I knew Canon Dan very well as he visited home every summer. His reply was “my advice to you is if you want to work in London opt for Southwark, if you want to avoid London opt for Arundel & Brighton. So, I chose A&B and I have never had any regrets.

God Bless you all,
Fr John

Unlocking the Stories of the Stained Glass Windows at OLQH

For our upcoming parish social media posts, we would like to share the stories behind the beautiful stained glass windows at OLQH and are looking to gather more information about them. If you know any details about the stained glass windows – such as the inspiration for the designs or have any old photographs of them being made or installed then please email Helen at: frimley@abdiocese.org.uk. Thank you

Festive Concert at OLQH

Experience a candle-lit journey into the spiritual heart of a medieval Christmas. Former parishioner David de Winter is delighted to bring the renowned male voice quintet plus reader: Opus Anglicanum to OLQH with their festive concert – Mediaeval Carols on Thursday 10th December. Doors open at 7.00pm for a 7.30pm performance. From simple Gregorian chant and devotional polyphony to joyous and raucous festive songs (some of which are over 800 years old). Booking via: www.opusanglicanum.org

Casting for Christmas Eve Nativity

Casting will take place on 1st and 8th November for the Christmas Eve Nativity Mass. If your child is in primary school and would like to take part, please complete the registration form using this link before 1st November.
